

Share Your Closet Story

“Everybody has a story. And there’s something to be learned from every experience.” – Oprah Winfrey

At The Closet Works, we believe that every closet holds a story waiting to be told. Over the past 30 years, we’ve had the privilege of learning about our customers through their unique stories and helping to shape their narratives.

While it’s true that all of our clients have taken a different path to transform their home spaces, we wanted to continue the tradition of taking these tales and sharing them with others who might get some needed motivation and inspiration for their own projects. So we created Featured Customer Closet Stories, a landing page dedicated to the many authentic customer closet stories, some challenging and often with successful results. From The Inspiration Behind a Beautiful Posh Walk-In Closet to Creating Celebrity-Inspired Closets and more, the details vary and offer great learning tools if you are in the midst of, or are preparing to, execute your own custom-designed closet space.

Take, for example, one of our favorite stories: Closet Wishes That Came True

“Lisa and her husband Richard were building their dream home and knew they would need something more substantial than the standard and basic wire closet systems they had in their previous house. Wanting to stay fiscally responsible, they did not think they could entertain the possibility that even one custom closet, let alone multiple closets in various rooms, could fit into their budget and have all the features the entire family needed. That is until they met Jill from The Closet Works, who started the process of turning their vision into a reality.”
